Recreation District Studies Donner Lake Beach Purchase

The governing board of the Truckee–Donner Recreation and Park District has instructed Dr. H. P. Tapia, district superintendent, to make a study of the possibility of the district acquiring the beach at the west end of Donner Lake, property currently owned by the Donner Lake Development Company of Reno, Nev.

Dr. Tapia said he had advised the district's attorney, Donald W. McMurchie of Sacramento to communicate with company officials regarding the possibility of a sale of the land which for many years has been operated by a concessionnaire.

The superintendent was also asked to determine the possibility of securing state or federal assistance for financing the purchase in event the owners are agreeable to selling the undeveloped property.

Purchase of the beach land for public use was the principal object of the district when it was organized several years ago but nothing officially has been done to achieve this purpose until the board took action this week. In the meantime, land costs at the lake have risen sharply and no figure of the current value is available.

In October, 1966, the district made overtures to the owners but was advised at that time that the company was not interested in selling, pending the possibility of projected improvements.

The district has hopes of perpeturating the area as a public asset rather than have it developed into homes or apartments, which may be the plan of the company.

Dr. Tapia pointed out that the beach land is the only portion of Donner Lake which might still be available for public use, the balance being privately owned with the exception of Donner Memorial State Park which is located at the east end of the lake.

One Man's Opinion

By CARL BRIGGS

Mountain folks in this region have a way of pointing to each other as rugged individualists who have voluntarily eschewed the convenience and culture of modern urban society for a more free and rugged way of life. It's true we forego much, but we gain a great deal more that flatlanders don't know about and probably wouldn't understand anyway.

Not everybody in the Truckee–Tahoe area qualifies, of course,, and for openers we might say that unless you live here all year and shovel your own snow you can't join the club.

The essence of what I'm talking about is typically apparent in two nearby communities, Soda Springs and Floriston.

I journeyed up over Donner Summit last week to cover a fire that wrecked a couple of buildings in Soda Springs and in talking to some of the residents there I was again impressed with the character and integrity of these people who live on top of the Sierra Nevada range. They are fighting time, the effects of a relocated highway, and a restricted seasonal economy – a combination of circumstances that has resulted in ghost towns all over the west.

These people, it seems, not only survive in the stark land of the big snows – most of it blowing horizontally – but do so with a type of strength, humor, and determination that is a scarce and precious commodity.

Far down in the Truckee River canyon hard by the Nevada border, and about as far removed from an exploding population as you can get in this country, is the town of Floriston.

It's not really a town. There is no industry or commerce, just a group of houses perched somewhat precariously above three tangled strands – the river, the railroad and Interstate 80. There used to be a pulp mill – that's why the town was built there – and at one time a hotel and other accepted manifestations of progress.

The mill and the hotel and most of the "progress" are long gone, and some 40 old "company houses" have been maintained as private homes, nearly all of them neat, in good repair and brightly painted.

For the first time Floriston now has a paved access road to the outside world, dedicated last Saturday, and it was the people themselves who accomplished this task without county funds or assistance.

Again, here are the individualists, people with the strength of their convictions. Although bypassed and forgotten by the westward migration, they stayed on by choice in that wild canyon and knew that for them it was a better life. Few of us are capable of such decisions.

And so the indomitable pioneer spirit that broke the first trails through this hostile frontier lives on the people of places like Soda Springs and Floriston, and long may the spirit and the people continue to thrive.

Man to a great extent is a product of his own making, and the people of our mountain communities are visible proof that contemporary civilization as exemplified by our cities is not the great architect that it is supposed to be. There is no substitute for being your own man. These are abstract evaluations, of course, but value is pure relativity and all you need to do is draw comparison from within your own experience. Compare and weigh and evaluate. You'll see what I mean.

Find Truck Used In Coin Heist

An empty van reportedly used in stealing an estimated $25,000 in coins, antique watches and rings, and other valuables stolen from Illinois Town Museum near Colfax was found Monday by Placer County Sheriff's deputies near the scene of the crime.

Officers were looking for two young men who reportedly robbed the museum and made their getaway in the owner's truck.

Deputies said that Mr. and Mrs. George Heppler, owners of the private museum, were confronted by the armed men Sunday night. The couple was bound with tape and then gagged and blindfolded. They live in the museum building.

Sheriff's Captain John Shingle reported the museum was left in a shambles.

Woman Killed In Rain Storm

Caroline Anne Dowell, 23, Oakland, was killed when her husband lost control in the rain-slick westbound lanes of Interstate 80 Saturday afternoon. The car ran up an embankment and turned over.

The woman's husband was taken to Tahoe Forest Hospital with minor injuries.

Dead In Motel Room

Michael Carl Deering, 32, was found dead at 1 p.m. Monday in his motel room at Kings Beach. No cause of death has been announced pending an autopsy, and Placer County Sheriff's Department reports the matter under investigation.

First Storm Of The Season Dampens Area

The first storm of the season classified as "major" by the weather forecasters, resulted in the Truckee receiving .99 of an inch of rain during the weekend.

This was sufficient, the U.S. Forest Service reported, to eliminate the danger of forest fires for the time being at least. The lookouts have been taken off their stations and Monday the inmate "hot shot" crew returned to Susanville.

Permits are still required for burning and may be obtained either at the forest service stations or from Rubin Maki, Truckee fire marshal.

The forest service reports the fire season ended Saturday with a total of 46 fires during the 1968 season. Of these 18 were started by lightning and 28 were man caused. There was only one major fire, that in the Sage Hen area in which 150 of the total of 151 acres were burned over. The others were quickly and effectively stopped in their beginning by the work of the suppression crews, which were constantly on the alert during the hot, dry summer.

The storm during the weekend resulted in several accidents on the rain–slicked highway, with one fatality being reported just west of Cisco.

The "chains advisable" signs were posted for a couple of hours Sunday night as snow blanketed the Donner area and the plows were put into action in that area for the first time this fall to clear the pavement. So far as could be learned the storm caused no material damage in this area.

School Advisory Committee Recommends Land Purchases

A citizens committee appointed by the Tahoe–Truckee Unified School District to advise on building needs in the area, has recommended acquisition of 10 to 15 acres on the west shore of Lake Tahoe as a site for a new elementary school.

Sites recommended in order of preference were on land along California 89 south of Ward Creek owned by C. K. McClatchy, W. E. McClatchy and J. B. McClatchy, and by Wells Fargo Bank. Other sites back from the roadway are on land owned by Audrey Brown and Bill Zeibig.

The committee of 12, headed by chairman Zeph D. Rose, a candidate for Nevada County Supervisor, recommended that a site owned by the school district in the Highlands subdivision be reserved for a future high school.

School sites offered by Trimont Corporation in their new development would be subject to investigation before acceptance.

To ease existing crowded conditions in the district, the committee recommended expanding the Truckee High School to provide an auditorium–drama music, complex, more vocational education facilities and a new gymnasium big enough for facilities for boys and girls.

Cost of the expansions was estimated at $1.4 million and the committee conceded a new general obligation bond issue may have to be submitted to voters.

With an assessed valuation of $68.5 million, the district's bonded indebtedness tax is less than half the allowable rate. The district is paying for $2.9 million in outstanding bonds which leaves a capacity of $3.9 million of which $1 million has been authorized but unsold.

Projected growth of the district's student population has been estimated at 3 per cent per year. It has been shown that the high school population does not grow as rapidly as the elementary population.

Even though the $2.9 million in outstanding bonds and $1 million still unsold were authorized mainly on the strength of a new high school being built at Lake Tahoe, the advisory committee recommended against a high school at the present time.

Seek Further Study On Incline Project

By FLORENCE BURGE

Lake Tahoe Regional Planning Commission Wednesday recommended further study before approval of a request for a special use permit to allow a proposed 500–lot development at Incline Village.

The controversial proposed development was brought before the commission during an all–day meeting at Crystal Bay Club. The meeting included a tour of Crystal Bay and Incline Village.

Chairman W. S. Meneley presided. Washoe County commissioners were among numerous guests and interested citizens attending from throughout Tahoe Basin and Washoe County.

In other business, the commission passed a resolution recommending immediate Nevada appointments to the California–Nevada Bi–State Agency and suggesting the agency be set up as an advisory body until such time as it is officially activated by congressional approval.

The resolution also urged that the appointive members representing the counties be members of the county commissions if at all practicable. The document will go to Nevada's Gov. Paul Laxalt and the commissioners of Ormsby, Douglas and Washoe counties.

No definite recommendations were made regarding a proposed high–rise hotel at Cal Neva Club at Crystal Bay. However, commission members commented regarding the preservation of the natural scenic beauty of the location.

It was also noted that required additional parking space could be a major problem. Washoe County Commissioners will consider a special use permit to allow the hotel at their next meeting Oct. 15. The Washoe County Planning Commission has recommended the permit be granted.

The problem of unsightly and dangerous abandoned piers and pilings was discussed after a presentation by James F. Trout of the California State Lands Division. Anything that reaches into the 6,223 foot level of the lake comes under the jurisdiction of State Lands.

Trout noted that owners are required to remove piers upon termination of the lease but the fees collected for leases are not large enough to maintain a staff to enforce removal.

The matter was referred to the planning commission's technical advisory committee. Suggestions included posting of bonds to insure removal or allowance of liens on property in the event the state had to take care of removal.

In seeking justification for new development, Donald Marek of Boise Cascade and Raymond Murphy of Murphy and Associates, engineers, presented a master plan for the total development of the 9,000 acres comprising the Incline Village complex.

Unit No. 1 is the existing development. Unit No. 2, composed of acreage north of the Mount Rose Road, is the one for which Boise Cascade is seeking a special use permit to allow for cluster housing development.

Marek noted that the broad program was continued production and marketing of "second home" lots with 4,000 homesites to be developed in the next three or four years; the building and sales of homes, condominiums and town houses; additional provisions for recreational activities; development of hotel, motel and tourist facilities and continued encouragement of sub–developers such as Lakeshore and Tyrolean Village.

In detailing plans already under way, Marek said a second golf course will be under construction this year with an opening date of 1970.

"Next spring we expect to start work on a new 50,000–square–foot shopping center at Tahoe Boulevard and Village Drive, said Marek. "This will be open by 1970."

He said expansion of the ski area is contemplated both at the present site and at a second site above the Mount Rose Highway.

Negotiations are in progress with a hospital group for a medical facility and Marek noted "we should know something soon on this."

Marek's summation pointed out that the proposed unit No. 2 would provide building sites restricted to the less steep portions of the property with canyons and open spaces between lots and restrictions on cutting trees.

He said each unit of development has certain acreage set aside to be deeded to Incline Village Improvement District of which Unit No. 1 has already been deeded. Of the total 9,000 acres involved in the whole village development, some 4,000 acres have been deeded to the improvement district for recreation upon completion of all the units.

Murphy, in recounting technical aspects, said the 3,500 lots with 4,500 dwelling units are well under the present zoning allowance of 6,000 units for the acreage in Unit No. 2. He said easements of "green belt" areas provided for cannot be used for building.

Water, sewer and electricity are provided for in the development. There are three access roads into the area with one short road having a 12 per cent grade but most held down to 8 per cent. Snow storage space is provided for on roads and in unused "green belt" areas.

The commission concluded discussions by passing a motion recommending the Washoe County Commissioners refer Boise Cascade's request for a special use permit to develop Unit No. 2 back to the Washoe County Planning Commission for further study.

The Lake Tahoe commission also referred the entire matter to its technical advisory committee to make specific recommendations.

It was announced the next meeting of the Lake Tahoe Regional Planning Commission will be held Nov. 13 at South Shore.

Mother And Children In Dune Buggy Wreck

A mother and her three small children were injured, two of them seriously, when the dune buggy she was driving got out of control and overturned one mile north of the Sierra County line on State Route 89 shortly before noon Wednesday.

The driver, Mrs. Nedra Stoy, 27, reported to the California Highway Patrol that she was traveling north about 50 miles an hour when she lost control. The car ran up an embankment and overturned.

The injured were taken to the hospital at Loyalton by Truckee ambulance. Two of the children, Scott, 6 and James, 3, suffered head and face injuries and Rene, 8, was treated for concussion and lacerations. Mrs. Stoy had facial lacerations. All were expected to recover.

The dune buggy was a 1968 stripped down small foreign–made vehicle.

Mrs. Stoy's husband is stationed at Beale Air Force Base and the family was enroute to Loyalton to visit her relatives.

Citizens Committee Seeks County Library Demonstration Program

By Carl Briggs
SUN EDITOR

Nevada County does not have a county library system and a group called the Citizens Committee for Countywide Library Service is trying to do something about that deficit.

A federal grant in the amount of $220,000 is reportedly available under the Library Services and Construction Act to finance a demonstration of the feasibility of a county library system on a two–year trial basis. This demonstration must be requested by the board of supervisors.

Two city libraries now exist within Nevada County, at Grass Valley and Nevada City. These facilities are supported by city taxes, a 30–cent rate in Grass Valley and a 20–cent rate in Nevada City. Both of these libraries would probably be incorporated into the county system, and Grass Valley City Council has already voted in the affirmative.

To serve outlying areas, a bookmobile carrying 3,000 volumes of a 10,000–volume comprehensive collection as well as other materials and services, would be furnished during the demonstration period and would be a gift from the state library if the county agreed to continue the program after the two–year trial period. If the county rejects the plan at that time, bookmobile, books, and all other materials revert to the state library.

At the present time, eastern Nevada County is served by a community library in Tahoe–Truckee High School.

Cost of a countywide library system has been estimated from 12 to 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The citizens advisory committee projects 12 to 14 cents, while county auditor John Trauner in a recent talk before Truckee–Donner Chamber of Commerce estimated a figure closer to 20 cents. One purpose of the two–year demonstration is to establish exactly what the ultimate tax rate would be.

The final question locally will be whether the existing community library at the high school, at no cost to the taxpayers, is adequately serving east county needs, or if a bookmobile and perhaps a permanent library for the area is worth a 12 to 20–cent tax increase.

The two–year demonstration, also at no cost to taxpayers, is expected to provide the answers. Both the Tahoe–Truckee Unified School District and Truckee–Donner Recreation and Park District have passed resolutions in favor of the demonstration.

The citizens committee is scheduled to go before the board of supervisors on October 29 to ask approval for the free demonstration phase.

The Candidates Corner:

Willie Curran Releases Campaign Statement

Developing and promoting of recreational activities in this area is one way of improving the overall economy, says William F. Curran, candidate for supervisor of Nevada County's 5th supervisorial district, in response to a series of questions posed by the Sierra Sun.

The recent acquistition of lands by our park and recreation district for playgrounds, picnic areas overnight camping, horseman activities, etc. has been a step forward in safeguarding our natural resources for the use of the people. Future development of recreation areas here is something that can't be overlooked, Curran stated.

"In the last 10 years we have acquired a 50-acre regional park, purchased one and a half miles of Donner Lake shoreline for public use and established two playgrounds in the Floriston and Gateway areas, Curran said. "Since 1937 I have seen business and industries come and go, but recreation is still with us and it is up to us to safeguard this natural resource and develop all that can be acquired."

"The local law enforcement officials are this district's main hope for an effective crime prevention program. It is my intention, if elected, to improve local conditions – raise the standards of county deputies with professional training programs and maintain a salary level according to individual qualifications, also a rate of pay that would attract those qualified people into the area."

Curran said that snow removal and road maintenance will always be a problem. As more miles of road are added to the county highway system there will be a need for an increase in personel and equipment, which means more financing for this department. During seasons of light snow, present services are adequate, but we must prepare ourselves now for emergencies created by the heavier snowfall.

"The relatively isolated communities could strengthen their representation by naming a representative from their community to meet with the elected supervisor. These meetings could be held on a predetermined schedule or as problems arise in his or her community. This spokesman, selected by his neighbors, would be aware of issues that should come to the attention of the supervisor. I have talked to many people in just such areas and am convinced, as they are, that they have been forgotten, a situation I intend to remedy if elected," Curran stated.

"The last question posed by the editor needs further clarification by him before I could attempt an answer. At this time I am unaware of the intentions of the "federal agency" concerning a dam on the Truckee River, therefore I cannot approach this issue positively or regatively."

Here's Riley

By ERNIE RILEY

While the great white father prowls the halls in Washington, turning off a light here and a light there in an economy drive, another drive is going on in the state of Nevada, namely the Paiute pinenut pickers, that should be brought to his attention.

So comes now some wise-acre in our confused and mixed-up government who has taken all the Indians in Nevada. For years the Indian families have gathered pine nuts, processed them and used them as part of the family diet, as well as selling part of the harvest to gain a few needed dollars.

Now our bureaucratic nincompoops have decided that no Indian may pick more than 25 pounds of pine nuts unless they pay five cents per pound for each pound over this amount. Besides this, they must have a permit to pick pine nuts in the first place.

I'm sure our friends are smart enough to only pick 24 1/2 pounds of pine nuts each and pay tribute to no one, then find out who has the nerve to think they need a permit to do what is their right in the first place. The misguided souls who dreamed up this one should have to shell pine nuts from now on.

Then to add insult to injury, an Indian named Stanley Smart has been fined $50 for shooting a deer and another $50 for illegal possession of a deer carcass. Stanley needed the meat to feed his wife and nine children, so he shot a deer to supply this need, and so he should. Especially when we think how many deer are killed in the name of sport, as well as the dozens that are slaughtered on our highways.

Our hope is that whoever set himself up as judge and jury in this case will have many restless nights, and that Stanley will be able to take this to the highest court in the land.

Don't the Indians ever win?

Public Meeting Set On Donner Operations

A public meeting conerning the operation of Donner Lake will be held in the Nevada County government building in Gateway on Thursday, Oct. 24, at 7:30 p.m.

Fred Hodder, manager of Truckee Sanitary District and member of the bi-state compact commission, has invited the following organizations to participate in the meeting: Federal water master from Reno, Sierra Pacific Power Co., State Fish and Game Department, Donner Memorial State Park, Truckee-Carson Irrigation District, Truckee-Donner Chamber of Commerce, Donner Lake Motel Owner Association, Truckee-Donner Recreation and Park District, and Donner Lake Property Owners Association. Hodder said that all interested persons are invited to attend.

The meeting will deal with operational problems relating to lake level at various times of the year and minimum and maximum flows in Donner Creek.

Rose Addresses Chamber On Campaign Issues

"I will work closely with and in support of any local organization or group that is trying to improve the welfare of our community," was the basis of a luncheon address delivered by Nevada County supervisorial candidate Zeph Rose before a meeting of the Truckee-Donner Chamber of Commerce Wednesday at the Olympic Cafe in Truckee.

"The chamber of commerce, merchants association, and any civic organization or citizen's group will be able to count on me, if I am elected, to support any program that will benefit our district," Rose said. "It is only through such close work with the people of the community, in fact, that a supervisor can do his best job."

Rose was guest of the chamber and featured speaker as some 20 members gathered to hear his address and ask questions. His opponent in the November 5 general election is Willie Curran, who has been invited by the chamber of commerce to make a similar speech at its meeting on October 23.

Rose spoke of the possibility of securing federal, state, or county aid, or a combination of all three, to provide some type of "information and rest center" in Truckee, and said that he would explore all available avenues to secure aid for such a project. "Truckee is the gateway for all the rest of the nation to California, the greatest state in the union, and some kind of tourist information center in the Truckee area would seem to be badly needed – and of course would be a great asset to the area," Rose stated.

When questioned regarding county "bed taxes," Rose said he felt there should be some means of assuring proper return to the area in which the taxes are collected. When it was suggested that state law probably prohibits this at the present time, Rose pointed out that state laws can be changed and frequently are when it is shown they are unjust or inequitable.

Rose concluded his address by saying, "I will dedicate myself and do my best, if elected, to conduct the affairs of this district in the way the people think it should be done. I have the time available to get the job done, I have the desire to give this district the very best representation that I possibly can, and I believe that I have the necessary experience and ability. All I ask is the chance to prove myself."

Letters To The Editor:

EDITOR, SIERRA SUN:

Enclosed are some clippings about an old resident of Truckee and a faithful subscriber to your paper for years. In fact, my brother still gets the paper every week and Mom enjoyed reading all the news up until recently.

Mom still has many friends in the Truckee area who will be grieved by her passing and do not know of it, so I am sending these (clippings) to you in the hope that a small article might bring the news to them. (Editor's note: The clippings follow this letter.)

My folks came to Truckee in 1921 and resided there until the fall of 1936. Dad was very active and took part in most all of the community activities. Three of us "kids" were born there and all grew up and went to school in Truckee.

Mom has been ill for several years now and was hospitalized Monday, September 23. She died Wednesday morning when her heart stopped. (Editor's note: This letter was dated October 1, but received October 11 at the Sun.)

The whole family are members of the American Legion and the Auxiliary and the services were conducted by Karl Ross Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Thank you so very much.

Mrs. Ivy McColl Baker

SUNBEAMS

By WALTER M. BARRETT

The fire season on the Tahoe National Forest officially ended with the weekend storm, with only one major forest fire reported in this district resulting from the 46 starts.

This, in our opinion, reflects the fast and effective preventative efforts of the forest service crews and the work of the 35-man inmate crew which has been stationed during the dangerous summer at Hobart Mills. It also shows the caution exercised by the hunters, fishermen and campers as well as others who frequented the forests in increasing numbers during the year.

Of the total of 46 fires, a low figure for conditions, only 28 were man-caused, the balance being started by lightning. Only alertness and fast response resulted in the fine record established and a bouquet is due the fire fighters.

In the forthcoming election local voters will be called upon not only to name a new supervisor, but to select personnel to serve on local boards. Since we are governed for the most part by those boards, we suggest that you familiarize yourself with their qualifications, their ability and desire to serve their community on an unselfish basis.

We believe the election of a representative supervisor is of utmost importance, but with our local form of government we cannot place too much emphasis on the selection of qualified and able board members. So when you prepare to vote, give serious thought to all candidates. Every vote counts and yours may be the deciding one.

What Has a Kid From Applegate Got To Do With Kings Beach?

He'll be sitting on Kings Beach in a few years because Bill Briner was instrumental in getting a half-million dollar beach complex authorized a few weeks ago from local, State, and Federal monies.

It's projects like this — and like Hell Hole Dam — and Picayune Valley that mean better living for the kids from Applegate, Colfax, and Kings Beach — and their parents, too! It's projects like this that mean more jobs in Placer County — more tourist dollars — and lower property taxes. BILL BRINER MEANS BUSINESS — FOR PLACER COUNTY.

Keep the good work going. Vote for Bill on November 5th and retain him as Supervisor.

Effluent Export Plan Announced At Incline

INCLINE VILLAGE — Plans for a new sewage treatment plant and treated effluent export line to Washoe Lake for the Incline Village General Improvement District, were announced Thursday by Harlan Moyer, field engineer for Claire Hill Associates.

Moyer is also district Engineer for South Tahoe Public Utility District.

Engineer's estimates of the improvements are $3,417,400 right now, although an alternate proposal could cut the export line at the 6,200-foot level above Washoe Valley at Muskgrove Canyon Creek and drop the cost to $2,882,800.

Water being exported would be of better quality than that in Washoe Lake now, in the opinion of Wallace White, Incline Village Improvement District manager.

Presently, the plant treats 200,000 gallons per day and has a capacity of 700,000.

The new plant is expected to have a 2.8 million gallon per day capacity and should be finished before the original reaches capacity, possibly 1971.

Yet to be decided is how the district would pay for the new improvements — by general improvement bonds or revenue bonds.

The two-plant capability will total 3.5 million GPD. White said the present flows would irrigate about a 300-acre pasture with forseeable flows doubling that.

The 6-million GPD export line, 18 inches in diameter, will take effluent up to the 7,950-foot summit, forced by four huge pumps at the 6,430-foot plant level.

The plant capacity is designed for optimum population of Incline Village estimated by White at 30,000 people.

White figures the saturation population at 48,000. He expects population to reach 5,000 to 7,000 during the next year, about double the present 3,000.

He said if construction is started quickly the plant and line could be completed by the end of next year, meeting a federal edict that treated effluent must be exported from the basin by 1970.

White said Washoe Lake needs water to keep its level high enough for water skiing and fishing. He said the lake contains a small parasite that causes "swimmer itch," and is therefore unsuitable for bathing. The water of the lake is used for irrigation only, White said.

He told the directors that Public Law 660 funds would pay for 30 per cent of the job and that he was applying for other state and federal funds that would further reduce the district's burden.

District directors referred the plans to their attorney and bond counsel for study and recommendation.

Offer Course In Leadership

Key officer or committeemen in local organizations will be interested in a course titled, "Organizational Leadership and the Community," offered through University Extension at Sierra College.

One unit of college credit is offered for completion of the three-evening and one Saturday morning instructional series dealing with practical techniques to more effective group leadership. Registration will be in Room A-11, Science Building, 7:30 p.m., Thursday or Friday evenings, October 17 and 18. Course fees may be offset by available scholarships.

The instructor is Skip Bolton, local 4-H advisor. Major topics will include working with people; communication; publicity and promotion; public evaluation. Maximum enrollment is 25. The course has been approved through the Applied Behavioral Sciences Department, University of California, Davis.

"Many times we confuse popularity and leadership," says Bolton. "Popularity is something you have for yourself. Leadership is what you do for others. And the first requirement for being an effective democratic leader is to have genuine faith in other people."

"This course is keyed to the community and the cross-section of interests indicated by the number of organizations operating throughout the Placer-Nevada — El Dorado County area," adds Bolton. "Representatiion from many of these organizations will add to the significance of the course."

Dept. Of Veterans Affairs Gives Service Information

Grass Valley has been designated by the State Department of Veterans Affairs to host an Income Questionaire Seminar on October 18. The seminar will be held at "The Office" meeting room, 102 Richardson Street, Grass Valley.

The meeting will start at 9:30 a.m. and Nevada County Veterans Service Officer, John Kootstra, will be host service officer. The seminars are conducted annually by the State Department of Veterans Affairs, to keep county veterans service officers throughout the state, current with new and changing income questionaires.

The 1968 questionnaires will be mailed earlier this year, and veterans receiving pensions (old and new laws) should have these questionnaires along with their November 1 checks.

The questionnaires must be returned to the VA prior to January 15, 1969, otherwise, the pensions will be discontinued. Also, a new pension law will become effective January 1, 1969, making the income limitations and pension payments based on a sliding scale for those receiving pension under the new law. Those under the old law will receive an increase of $200 above their present invome limitations, single veterans from $1,400 to $1,600, and married veterans from $2,700 to $2,900. Those receiving pensions under the new law will also receive an increase in their income limitations.

The Veterans Administration will advise pensioners under the old law to check the benefits under the new law and possibly change to the new law prior to April 1, 1969.

The Veterans Service Office is located a 255 South Auburn Street, (Veterans Memorial Building) Grass Valley. The Veteran's Service Officer will be in Truckee October 28 at the Nevada County government center in Gateway. Anyone interested in seeing him may contact him there.

Sales Director Named For Incline Village

INCLINE VILLAGE – Jon V. Adams has been appointed director of sales for Incline Village Inc., Robert Elkins, executive vice president of United States Land Inc., has announced.

Adams, an Oakland resident and graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, has been a sales manager working in the Bay Area. He has been with the firm more than a year.

JON V. ADAMS

The new sales director was sales manager of Peacock Gap, a 2,200-acre San Rafael development sparked by Honolulu's legendary Chin Ho. He served with that development for four years before opening his own real estate brokerage firm in Oakland in 1963. He specialized in commercial and multiple properties.

The promotion was made to fill a vacancy created when William Hanlon, Incline sales director since his firm took over the development last June, was promoted to director of sales for United States Land's western region.

Adams is a native of Monterey, where his father, Vince V. Adams, was well-known for his community work and served as manager of the chamber of commerce before his death.

The worst thing about history is that every time it repeats itself the price goes up.

Bids On Highway Jobs

Sealed bids were opened last week by the State Division of Highways for installation of 16 signs to improve safety in the high mountain areas of Interstate 80 between Colfax and Truckee. Steiny & Mitchel, Inc., of San Francisco bid low at $114,000 among two firms submitting proposals.

Motorists will read two new messages when this project is completed. One series will read "Reduce Speed When Wet." The others, 18 feet in the air, will carry the message "Speed Limit 50 mph This Lane" and will be coupled with an arrow pointing to the slow traffic, truck-climbing lane.

One sign is intended to slow motorists when the pavement is wet thus reducing hazard to safety during thundershowers and in the warming / cooling cycles.

The other sign message is planned to keep slower moving vehicles from interfering with faster paced traffic and will promote a more orderly flow of traffic.

The job will take two or three months depending on the weather.

Elementary School Flag Football Season In Full Swing

The Kings Beach Lions capitalized on an early second quarter break to edge the Truckee Cubs 9–6 last week.

Early in the second quarter, Mitch Frazier's punt died on Truckee's one yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, Steve Russell knifed through the line and caught the Cub's quarterback in his own end zone. Lions took the lead 2–0. Russell Brett returned the kickoff to mid field. On the first play, Mitch Frazier passed to Brent Thompson who galloped 42 yards into the end zone. Jeff Molsberry skirted left end for the P.A.T. and the Lions led 9–0.

The second half belonged to Truckee, Pal Wurst scampered 55 yards to the Lions one to set up the ensuring touchdown. The Cubs scored on a quarterback sneak on the following play. The try for point was unsuccessful.

An inspired Truckee team controlled the game. Early in the fourth quarter, the Cubs found themselves in a fourth and one situation on the Lion's ten yard line. Wurst skirted his own right end for an apparent touchdown. A rule infraction cancelled this and the play was run over. This time the Lions held.

The Lions displayed some great individual efforts and an excellent punting game to hold field position and run out the clock.

In previous games this season the Kings Beach Lions took a 7–0 victory over Truckee Cubs and edged the Tahoe City Tigers 7–6.

The Lions – Cubs contest saw a spectacular pass play from quarterback Scott Wilson to flanker Kelly Johnson. Wilson scored from one yard out on a keeper play.

The Kings Beach players came from behind for their victory over Tahoe City. Tahoe City's Andy Plumridge intercepted a pass and rambled 95 yards to pay dirt for the first score in the game. The tieing touchdown and winning point after touchdown was the result of Kornazewich–Brett passing combination.

There are three games left in the Kings Beach Lion's football schedule. Thursday, Oct. 17 they play at Tahoe City. On Oct. 24 the team plays at Truckee and Oct. 31 will be a game with Tahoe City at Lionville.

HISTORIC LANDMARK BURNS — The main tavern building and garage of old Reno Hot Springs, near Steamboat, south of Reno, burned to the ground Saturday afternoon in a roaring wind–whipped blaze. Pleasant Valley Volunteer Fire Department responded to the 3:14 p.m. alarm, supported by units from Washoe County, Sparks, and Nevada Division of Forestry Galena Creek Station. The business, owned by Nevada Comstock Corp. and leased to Lee Carter, had recently lost its license for inadequate health standards, and was not operating. Firemen estimated damage at $11,000. Seven other buildings on the property were saved. —Sun Photo

Robert C. Gebhardt Company Awarded Boat Ramp Contract

The Robert C. Gebhardt Company of Truckee and Lake Tahoe has been awarded a $10,–390 contract for construction of a boat ramp at the west end of Donner Lake by the Truckee–Donner Recreation and Park District.

The offer by Gebhardt was the lowest of three bids submitted for the first phase of the $50,000 project.

The contract covers only the construction of the concrete ramp which will be 30 feet wide and extend 76 feet into the lake. Additional contracts for the balance of the work, including a parking area, rest rooms and a marine service station, will be awarded next spring, according to Dr. H. P. Tapia, superintendent of the district.

Cost of the project is being financed through a grant from the state department of harbors and watercraft, obtained by the district a year ago. Land for the construction was purchased from the Donner Lake Development Company and is located just east of Donner Lake Lodge on old Highway 40.

The contractor has 30 days to complete work on the initial phase of the ramp.

In other action Thursday night, the board of directors of the district reached a tentative agreement with the Truckee–Donner Horsemens Association for construction and maintenance of a rodeo ground adjacent to the Truckee River Park south of Truckee.

Pollution Study May Save Tahoe Air Purity

Special to the Sierra Sun

SUNNYVALE – Air pollution may not be an immediate problem in communiteis such as Provo, Utah, or Taft, Calif., or Truckee, Tahoe City, or Incline Village, but is is of conern to many of the nation's largest population centers.

And the problem of air pollution is not necessarily limited to areas on earth.

In Sunnyvale, research is under way at Lockheed Missiles and Space Co. to eliminate harmful chemicals from the atmosphere of future spacecraft.

The aerospace firm has announced it successfully completed a 180–day test of an isotope–heated catalytic oxidizer—a spacecraft device designed to cleanse the air which astronauts breathe.

Besides space, the air purifier has application for the areas of ocean research, and also for the automobile and heavy industry which have both been labeled major contributors to air pollution.

Thomas M. Olcott, project leader for the test in Lockheed's Biotechnology Department, said that in ocean research the oxidizer could be part of the life support system in a bottom habitat or deep diving submarine. And, he added, the oxidizer principle might help reduce the polluting exhaust wastes of autos and heavy industries.

As part of a $125,000 contract with NASA's Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va., the Lockheed test measured the oxidizer's ability to remove potentially dangerous elements including methane, hydrogen and carbon monoxide from a spacecraft atmosphere.

Such elements contribute to the irritating smog problems of major cities. Within a space cabin atmosphere they pose a serious hazard to the safety of the astronauts. Methane and hydrogen can be explosive. Carbon monoxide is poisonous.

Olcott explained that the oxicizer is the major part of a contamination removal unit which also includes filtering beds.

He said the oxidizer removes harmful chemicals by burning them from the air as the air flows through the oxidizing cannister. A filtering bed "upstream" of the cannister removes chemicals which might poison the oxidizer's performance, while a second bed "downstream" removes any acidic gases which might remain after the harmful chemicals are burned.

In a future spacecraft, heat for the burning process will be provided by the radio activity of a radioisotope such as Plutonium 238. Under a subcontract to Lockheed, TRW is developing the isotope heat source.

In the laboratory experiment, however, Lockheed scientists used electric heat, because the purpose of the tests was merely to evaluate the design of the complete contaminant removal unit.

During the six–month run, scientists introduced known amounts of contaminants into the unit and juged it effective by measuring how well harmful chemicals were eliminated.

Olcott said the present oxidizing unit is an improvement of a design originally developed as part of Lockheed's two–gas regenerative life support system, and later redesigned under a NASA contract to eliminate atmosphere contamination from an Apollo–type spacecraft.

The two–gas system, designed to support four astronauts for a year or more in space, has undergone many experiments, both in the lab and with men in an altitude chamber. In every test, harmful chemicals were kept within safe limits. The recent experiment was the first complete system test of the radioisotope design.

"Using radioactivity to generate heat provides reliability and reduces spacecraft weight, since a two–pound plutonium heat generator can supply as much useable heat as 40 pounds of electrical equipment," Olcott explained.

Always struggling to hold down weight, aerospace engineers estimate that for each extra pound lofted into earth orbit, the cost increases $1,000 to $1,500.

Although the isotope–powered air purifier is designed primarily for future space missions, its usefulness may not be restricted to astronauts. As deep ocean exploration continues and as man attempts to lengthen the time his vehicles and habitats remain underwater, life support technology will have increasing application in that field.

"The two frontiers, outer space and the inner space of deep ocean, are not unrelated," said Olcott. "We're confronted with similar problems in providing a breathable atmosphere for an extended journey by man in either environment. In fact, we've already applied some space technology to ocean research."

Lockheed's Deep Quest, one of the world's deepest diving research submarines, operates with a life support system developed by the company's biotechnology department. Company scientists borrowed generously from space technology for the submarine's unit. Similar adaptation is part of the design effort on the deep submergence rescue vehicle which lockheed is developing for the Navy.

"In the near future, catalytic oxidizers are likely to have a more direct effect on the public than through space exploration or oceanography," said Olcott, "Various designs of oxidizers are one answer to industrial and automobile air pollution."

He explained that isotope–heated oxidizers are certainly out of the question for the present due to their high cost, but oxidizers of some type might eliminate harmful chemicals which man is presently pouring into his incrasingly dirty air.

"One of the problems scientists face today is the design of an efficient, low cost catalytic oxidizer to clean the exhausts of cars and industrial plants. In many ways it's a more complex problem than the one with spacecraft, but like any other technological challenge, it's not insoluale," he said.

"We're making advance in a technology intended at the moment for the space program. I'm sure that in time scientists can do the same for other areas."

Basin Soil Protection Symposium Scheduled

A symposium on Vegetation and Soil Protection in the Tahoe Basin will be held Oct. 24, starting at 8:30 a.m. at the Tahoe Sands Motel auditorium, South Lake Tahoe.

The symposium is sponsored jointly by Nevada Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, California Department of Conservation and Lake Tahoe Area Council.

Experts in landscaping, horticulture, forestry, agronomy, plant production and soil stabilization will discuss varying aspects of vegetation management in the basin.

Principal topics include vegetation relating to homes and buildings, roads, utility easements, recreation areas and wildlands.

Ray Knisley, Lake Tahoe Area Council director, former Nevada legislator and long–time Tahoe resident will be luncheon speaker.

Sponsors urge all interested persons to attend and participate.

New Facilities Ready To Go At Boreal Ridge Ski Area

Boreal Ridge on the summit of Interstate 80 is set to open for its fourth season, according to general manager Jay Price, and night skiing will be inaugurated, making the first Northern California ski area to offer fully lighted slopes.

Night illumination will be furnished by a new 60,000–watt system, lighting the slope from the lodge to the ridge and including the green chairlift run and the entire T–bar and ropetow area. Lifts will run continuously from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Thursday through Sunday.

Boreal Ridge Ski School will introduce the "graduated length" method of teaching this season, enabling beginning skiers to master the basic skills in less time and to have more fun while learning, according to Price. The method uses skis of various lengths, starting at four feet and going up to normal sizes.

Another new feature at Boreal Ridge is the Museum of Western Skisport, located between the parking lot and the lodge. The museum, built and operated by the Auburn Ski Club, depicts the history of western skiing with a colorful display of pictures, trophies, and other items. The museum also includes a nondenominational chapel.

The Auburn Ski Club has also completed a 40–meter jumping hill, located approximately 700 yards west of the lodge. An increased emphasis on Nordic skiing, including the annual Snowshoe Thompson Race and several jumping contests, will be held at Boreal this season.

There are three new ropetows in the beginning ski area, and Bob Harris is returning as director of the ski school.

Five Left For Sierra Team

Sierra College has five games remaining on its 1968 football schedule, all of them Golden Valley Conference games:

October 19, Napa at Napa; October 26, Yuba at Sierra; November 2, Butte at Butte; November 9, Redwood at Sierra; November 16, Shasta at Shasta.

The Napa and Butte games will be played at night with kickoff set for 8 p.m. The others are afternoon games beginning at 1 p.m.

Four Tahoe–Truckee High School graduates are playing this year for Sierra: Ron Walker, halfback; Ron Smith, halfback; Steve Howard, linebacker; and Scott Austin, linebacker.

Homer (Buzz) Ostrom is head football coach.

Ski Movies For Club

Ski movies and a dinner featured the last meeting of Incline Ski Club held at the Christmas Tree on Mount Rose Road.

Lugi Foeger presented the movies to some 100 members and guests attending. Plans for the year's activities were discussed with announcements of times and dates to be made later.

Spy To Speak To Executives

An "almost unbelievable" story of foreign intrigue is in store for members of the Reno Executives Club on Tuesday, October 22.

Philippe Thyraud De Vosjoli, chief of foreign intelligence in the U. S. from 1951 to 1963, is speaker of the evening. His story concerns Soviet espionage that penetrated de Gaulle's official family.

Tahoe area members must have reservations into secretary Lena Jacobs by October 18. The meeting will be a dinner at the Sparks Nugget Convention Center.

Golfers Prepare Awards Banquet

Cocktails will be served from 7 to 8:30 p.m. with dinner scheduled for 8:30. There will be dancing from 9 p.m. until ??

During the dinner trophies will be awarded for the tournaments held throughout the year. New officers will be installed. Liz Knapp, phone 587–3381, and Molly Maki, phone 587–4137, are taking dinner reservations before Oct. 23.

New officers are Lyman Sweet president; Reuben Maki, vice president; Barbara Zorich, treasurer; Marion Thomsen, recording secretary, and Audrey Sweet, corresponding secretary.

Salute To Air Traffic Men

The week of October 13 through 19 has been designated by Governor Ronald Reagan to honor California's professional air traffice control specialists, Joseph R. Crotti, Director of the Department of Aeronautics, announced today.

Crotti termed the week a "time of tribute to those dedicated and hardworking people who last year handled more than eight million landings and takeoffs at the state's civil airports, plus countless others at military fields.

"Their dedication and skill has been of the utmost imporance in promoting the safety of the traveling public," he continued.

He called attention to the growth of California's air traffic and the fact that eight of the 18 busiest civil airports in the nation are located here.

Besides responsibility for the safety of planes taxiing, taking off and landing, controllers assign altitudes and routings to craft traversing California's skies and maintain radar surveillance of them enroute.

Crotti is the former manager of the Merced Municipal Airport. He was appointed to his present post by Governor Reagan last December.

It is an honor to welcome Sue and Dale Berning to Crystal Bay – their new home. They were married May 18 in Susie's home town of Oklahoma City. Dale originated from Ohio but is now a real estate developer at Tahoe.

However, this past summer he toured the U.S. with Susie while she was on the women's professional golf tour. He was amply rewarded by having his wife win the national women's open golf tournament and be acclaimed the best woman's golfer in the U.S.

In a TV interview, Susie stated that she played the Incline Village course. Only Incline golf pro George Bayer knew the new champion Sue Berning was the one and same Susie Maxwell.

Susie has another funny story to tell on herself. While on tour she was teamed with another woman who said she was playing with "some amateur" by the name of Berning. She too was surprised when her amateur player turned out to be champion former Susie Maxwell.

The July issue of Sports Illustrated has a feature story on Susie.

Anniversary At Eagle Thrifty Marks Thirty-Third Year

Eagle Thrifty Shopping World is holding its 33rd anniversary celebration starting Wednesday, October 16, it was announced today by E. T. "Gene" Gastanaga, President of Eagle Thrifty Drugs & Markets, Inc.

This big celebration is always a high point in the year for Eagle Thrifty, Gastanaga added. "We always offer many special bargains for the shopper as well as give thousands of dollars in free prizes to lucky registrants."

Eagle Thrifty, under present ownership, began its operations in Winnemucca in 1935 by the late Martin Gastanaga. It has expanded until now it encompasses 10 stores. There are eight in western Nevada, the original store in Winnemucca and one in Susanville, California.

The eleventh store is under construction in the Kingsbury Grade area of South Lake Tahoe, one-quarter mile up from Highway 50. Opening of this unit is scheduled for spring, 1969.

In 1951, Claude Stewart, vice-president, joined the company and introduced the complete one-stop shopping concept to Northern Nevada. Eagle Thrifty has expanded with Nevada in providing its customers with the finest in foods, meats, prescription drugs and thousands of other items shown to be wanted by its customers.

"By providing finest quality merchandise at competitive prices, Eagle Trifty has been able to keep pace with the community it serves," Jose J. Gastanaga, vice-president stated. Customer service and satisfaction are always our aims, he added.

Eagle Thrifty now employs more than 450 persons with an average length of employment of more than nine years.

Eagle Thrifty pursues a policy of employing young persons as bag boys and training them with the idea of then promoting them in the organization. Plans are now in effect to expand this program.

Jack Williams, general manager of Eagle Thrifty's operations, states that this thirty-third anniversary event will be the biggest in the company's history with outstanding values for the shopper, S & H green stamps and prize drawings for mink stoles, GE color console television sets and thousands of dollars in other prizes each week of the four-week celebration.

Bizz Johnson Decries Fall Of Kuchel

Rep. Harold T. Johnson of the 2nd, Mountain-Valley, District has called the defeat of Sen. Thomas Kuchel in June "a tragedy" and says the loss will be felt by Californians.

Johnson, in Redding for two days of dedication acitivities, said yesterday whoever is elected to the Senate from California – Max Rafferty or Alan Cranston – will be a freshman legislator there.

The Democratic representative, who is also seeking reelection to the House, touched on other topics during the meeting which included politics, law and order, the federal surcharge, and highway funding.

Johnson also said he would not favor curbing the powers of the Supreme Court. "The court has stood the test of time," he said "and I don't favor curbing any of its powers."

Willie Is A Grandpa

Willie Curran, local candidate for county supervisor, was all smiles Monday when his daughter, Kathy, now Mrs. Ronald Silva of Truckee, became the mother of twins, born at the Tahoe Forest Hospital. The tiny tots, a boy and a girl, were reported doing well in the hospital nursery.

Duff Charges Contempt For Election Process

Douglas Duff of Colfax leveled another blast at incumbent Placer County supervisor Frank J. Paoli Monday, charging "nepotism among political cronies." Duff is a write-in candidate opposing Paoli and incumbent Bill Briner for a seat on the Placer County Board of Supervisors.

"Two weeks ago I appeared before the Board of Supervisors in Placer County to ask the County Attorney about the legality of two County Constables campaigning for the incumbent, Mr. Paoli, while in uniform in county – supported vehicles. They were Mr. Angelo Scalise of Foresthill and Mr. Elmer Williams of Weimar-Colfax. In addition, there was questionable activity by a county road foreman, Mr. Carl Keck," said Douglas Duff.

"I was assured at the Board meeting that action would be taken. To this date, none has. In fact the political activity of the constables has increased. Only last Thursday, October 10, Mr. Williams was once again seen by several persons while he was in uniform participating in political action. Mr. Williams has stated publicly that "It's nobody's business."

"Mr. Paoli declared at the Board of Supervisors meeting two weeks ago when this subject was discussed regarding tax-supported employes on duty, Anyone who wants to work for me, can. In fact, he has been seen supplying them with paraphernalia, knowing that their activities were questionable," Duff stated.

"This contempt for the election process only points to the nepotism and political cronies that exist when an incumbent has been in office twenty years. Government Code Section 3204.5 states, "No officer or employe of a local agency shall participate in political activities of any kind while in uniform."

"Like an iceberg, only what I have stated is visible, there is much more below the surface," Doff charged.

Fire-Ettes Annual Ball October 19

The Fire-ettes, Auxiliary of the Truckee Fire District, will be holding their annual fall dance at Donner Lake Lodge October 19.

This year a buffet dinner will be served from 6 to 9 p.m. with dancing to Dick Small's 4 piece band from 9 to 1 a.m.

A valuable door prize, a twelve piece set of stainless steel flatware will be given away. It is not necessary to attend to win. The set is being displayed at the Bank of America.

Everyone is invited to attend. Tickets are $3.50 per person and proceeds will be used to help the firemen purchase equipment not provided by the district.

Marilyn Marquette of Donner Lake is chairman.

Placer County Books Embezzlement Suspect

– Elva K. Nybakken, 24, of Lancaster, Los Angeles County, has been booked in the Placer County Jail at Auburn on suspicion of embezzlement and forgery.

The district attorney's office said the woman was an employe of a Tahoe City, Lake Tahoe, dentist when she forged and cashed checks which were the property of the dentist.

Society Meets

Truckee – Donner Historical Society will meet at 8 p.m., Thursday, October 17, in the Nevada County government building, Gateway. There will be a discussion of a museum tour in San Francisco.

Approve Cal-Neva High-Rise

RENO — A zoning board approved plans Tuesday for a 10-story hotel at the Cal-Neva Lodge on Lake Tahoe's north shore, despite protests of some lakefront property owners "it would stick up like a sore thumb."

Park Lake Enterprises Inc., headed by singer Frank Sinatra, must obtain final approval from the Washoe County Commission. Park Lake is selling the casino-lodge to owners of the Club Cal-Neva in Reno.

The County Board of Zoning Adjustment said the building must be "architecturally subdued" with no exterior lighted signs and that an adequate sewage system be used.

"Aesthetically, the building stinks," said lawyer Jack Berry, representing several property owners within 300 feet of the proposed structure.

"It might look nice in Los Angeles or Las Vegas, but at the shores of Lake Tahoe it doesn't fit. It would be sticking up like a big metallic sore thumb."

Another attorney for Lake Property owners, Clifton Young, said he felt the high-rise hotel would "deteriorate the unique qualities of Lake Tahoe."

Newell Hancock, representing Park Lake, said there's a lack of quality rooms at the north shore, adding that the area's economy needs a new hotel.

Elks Lodge Buys Property

North Tahoe Sierra Elks Lodge 2140 is conducting a fund-raising campaign to purchase a parcel of land in Tahoe City for future construction of a new building.

The land consists of two acres located on the 5th fairway of the Tahoe City Golf Course. One acre is being purchased for $17,000, and the other acre is being donated by the Bechdolt family of Tahoe City in memory of their father, Pop Bechdolt, who was a fifty-year Elk.

The lodge has already taken in $11,000 toward purchase of the land, and the building drive will continue the rest of this month.

Reagan Appoints Staff

Lucille and Erin McGreevy, pharmacists from Auburn, have been named cochairmen for Placer County for the election of Walter E. Regan to the Senate seat from the Third Senatorial District of California. Harry Rosenberry, Bank of California, Auburn, is finance chairman, and Clyde and Sylvia Nance and North Lake Tahoe cochairmen.

Incline Wins 2nd Game Of Season

INCLINE VILLAGE — Stan Mason and Larry Hume could be called the new 1-2 punch at Incline Village.

Both scored touchdowns Saturday, to give their team a 2-2 mark on the season in a 13 0 win over Lovelock's junior varsity.

Mason scored on a 35-yard run on a sweep in the first quarter while Hume plunged over from the one-yard stripe and later ran in the extra point in the third quarter.

Chamber Pot-Shots:

By BETTY LAYTON

The report from the San Francisco Ski Show is that 55,-500 people visited it during its 4-day run. Los Angeles draws from 10 million people so naturally it is larger. The weather was cool and the ski enthusiasts were in the mood for the show. The attendance on Saturday was 10 per cent above last year when the temperature outside was in the 100's. The ski shop displays were much bigger, more varied and were more imaginative in S. F. than in Los Angeles.

The San Francisco Ski Show got off to a slow start Thursday and into the day on Friday. However, Friday night and Saturday made it all worthwhile. A new feature this year was the ski fantasy a-go-go show with the psychidalic picture-color pattern flashed on a screen dispersed with ski shots and live and active skiers in performance too.

The greatest ski movie to come out since the Bogner-Foeger one is the new "Outer Limits" which is financed and produced by Hart Skis T. W. A. and Ski Magazine. The photography is superb and the skiing is a hybrid between fantasy, acrobatics, humor and skill. A short fill-in ski movie of Ron Rupp skiing Homewood Ski Area was flashed on the screen inbetween each full length ski film which gave a lot of exposure to Lake Tahoe.

Those North Lake Tahoe volunteers who assisted with Ski Tahoe North booth were – Trinkie Watson, John and Jean Sproehale, Sandy Paulsen, Judy Thatcher, Ray Huston, Helen Foeger, Janet and Chap Wentworth and Tim Sullivan.

There was far greater genuine interest in the ski packages offered by the Ski Tahoe North program in Los Angeles than in San Francisco. In the Sunday Los Angeles Times there was an entire tabloid on Lake Tahoe which was sponsored by an airlines which flies into South Shore. However, North Lake Tahoe had a one-half page ad in it promoting ski packages and accommodation reservation service and our office is already receiving requests for more information on it.

The Ski Tahoe North brochures are being widely distributed to ski shops and travel agencies throughout Northern and Southern California.

In order to help Chamber managers compare and equip themselves to do a better job in their communities, there is an annual national convention which this year was in Portland. The theme was "Generating Greatness" and it was pointingly brought out by national leaders on the program that the chambers of commerce in the various communities today are playing an important role and taking on new stature nationally. Interestingly enough the North Lake Tahoe chamber compares very favorably with the national average for chambers its size, in membership, budget, and activities. There is no hard and fast definition of a chamber of commerce except it is to fill the role needed for the orderly growth and development in the particular area in which it is located. There is quite a different role between Lake Tahoe and Detroit, Michigan where the minority is now the majority and the chamber is working on the training program and employment of them.

The North Lake Tahoe Chamber was host Monday to a group of touring travel agents from Pittsburgh and area. They toured Squaw Valley, rode the gondola, saw the facilities at Alpine Meadows and had lunch at the Alpine Chalet as guests of Carol and Jack Hughes.

School District Trustees Act On Two Propositions

Trustees of the Tahoe Truckee Unified School District passed resolutions at their meeting October 9 in support of Proposition 1-A and in opposition to Proposition 9 on the November ballot as being detrimental to the welfare of the children in the district.

The resolution against Proposition 9 stated that the measure, if enacted, "would seriously threaten the ability of public schools and other public agencies in California to function, by drastically cutting property tax revenues without providing alternative sources of financing."

The resolution also pointed out that replacement revenues would "require huge increases in personal income, sales and/or other taxes, in excess of property tax reductions for the average homeowner."

"Proposition 9 would halt construction of needed new schools, water projects, rapid transit systems, libraries, sports arenas and public works of all kinds," the resolution said.

"The inevitable effect of Proposition 9 would be the end of local government and local control of education, with all governmental functions directed by a vast bureacracy in Sacramento."

In support of Proposition 1-A, the school board trustees said the issue "represents an attempt on the part of the legislature and the state administration to offer the voters of California an alternate to the Watson Amendment," (Proposition 9) and that the alternative "would be less damaging to public education and other tax supported governmental services."

Trustees in favor of the resolutions were de Ryk, Maughan, Baxter and Meixner, Conners was absent.

I'M FOR MAX!

Senator Murphy says ...

"I know Max Rafferty personally as a man of integrity, courage and intelligence. Some three million Californians demonstrated their vote of confidence for the job Max Rafferty has done in education for our state when they re-elected him as Superintendent of Public Instruction in 1966.

"He is concerned, as I am, how the world's greatest nation can be torn by riots, crime and irresponsibility by such a small percentage of our total population. Max Rafferty believes, as I do, that the freedom and strength of our nation did not just happen. Millions have been killed during the past 192 years in bringing about this strength and freedom we all enjoy. Max Rafferty will be a Senator who has the guts to stand up and speak out against that small number among us who seek to destroy our great heritage."

Trem Talk

By BETTY SHIVELEY

Plans for Spirit Week were moved into position last week. It is the duty of each class to plane a hall theme before the big week. Decorations can't be put up before Monday. Every day after school this week the class workers will be climbing ladders, taping paper, painting signs, streaming crepe paper from one end of the halls to the other. Does it sound like bedlam? It really is a lot of fun!

Friday the class advisors will judge the most creative work and announce the winners at the rally. Each day during Spirit Week the mode – of – the – day changes. Of course the grand finale of the week is the homecoming parade, homecoming game, and the dance Saturday night. Everyone is invited to the thrilling football game of TNT men against men of Lincoln.

* * *

Girls League has been a busy group planning and decorating a float for the homecoming queen and her court for the parade. The parade will leave the high school Saturday morning, meander down to Truckee, then back to the school again.

* * *

The French Club met for the first time this year. The main order of business was the election of officers. Since there are only two seniors taking French this year, the honors of presidency were divided between the two girls — Micki Barker and Jan Price. The newly elected vice president is Diane Rose; secretary, Martha Pope; treasurer, Sue Terry; student council rep., Gary Price. Many fun activities are being planned for the coming year.

* * *

See TNT with T.W.A.! The price of the ticket is only $4.50 with a student body card and $6.00 without. Where are we going with T.W.A.?

The trip started September 3 and early June, 1969, we will be at the destination. The trip makes many exciting stops along the way. See TNT with T.W.A. (Terrifically Wonderful Annual). Our pilots of T.W.A. this year are Kathy Marco and Judy Terry!

* * *

The student council witnessed a movie last Tuesday concerning student government. The title was "How Can the Student Government be Most Efficient?" The representatives took the advice and suggestions to heart for the efficiency of our own student government.

* * *

The first senior class meeting was held to formulate plans for this year's senior events. The main issue discussed was the Senior Ball. This dance will be held pending class cooperation next January.

* * *

Block "T" and G.A.A. are combining forces under the able leadership of Curt Wurst and Cheryl Bechdolt, respective presidents, for the best Homecoming Dance ever. The highlight of the evening, of course, is the crowning of the queen. Please fellas, help the girls decorate. Your brains and brawn will be needed. The prices are $1 stag and $1.50 drag. Be sure to get a date!

* * *

The seniors received the proofs of their pictures. Decisions, decisions! With so many beautiful and handsome poses, it was difficult to choose just the right one. The finished pictures are scheduled to be returned in December.

The photographer was at the high school last Friday taking pictures of the activity groups as well as a few candid shots around the school. It was hard to settle down to class discussions because there was always some kind of group picture being taken.

* * *

A rally was held last Friday afternoon to kindle a spark of spirit for Saturday's Del Oro game. Between yells led by the cheerleaders, several simple skits were given by the Skit Club. What humor! Humor and spirit is a great combination, eh Trem?

A special treat at the rally was a letter from Mr. Dwight Souers, former TNT science teacher. President Jeff Jellin read the letter to the school. Mr. Souers misses ole TNT almost as much as we all miss him. He mentioned how much he had gained from just being here the past five years with Trem and company. But Trem and company would be on the weak side without Mr. Souers contributions. On behalf of the entire TNT Trem company, thank you for your guidance Mr. Souers.

Next Monday, October 21, will be the CSF invitation. CSF cordially invites the parents of the initiates and present members to attend the ceremony after school. The faculty is also invited. Refreshments will be served afterwards.

Nevada North Shore Republican Women Introduce Democrats To Lt. Gov Ed Fike

Nevada Republican women on the North Shore entertained their Democratic friends last Wednesday at a luncheon to meet Ed Fike, Nevada's Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate. Samuel Francovich was master of ceremonies with Mrs. Fike and Mrs. Francovich as special guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Black of Incline were hosts for the event which drew some 75 or more guests to the Crystal Bay Club. Rev. David Graham gave the invocation.

Fike told guests he didn't want "any of you to have any doubts about my stand on issues" as he outlined his stand.

"We must keep our engagement there (in Vietnam)," he said after noting this was costing $4 million per hour.

"We must not retreat in the face of communism."

He also said we have a war at home – crime – that costs almost as much. He proposed an all-out war on crime saying "I think we can win if we stop talking and be specific.

"We need total committment that we are going to create a crimeless society," Fike said, proposing a committment to "tough, hard uncompromising courts." He suggested law enforcement should be upgraded, that they should be given the equipment and man-power to enforce the laws.

Among co-hostesses with Mrs. Black were Lee Cunningham, Paula Gurney, Isabelle Kissinger, Ginnie Parsons, Tudi Malley, Vivian Kisiluk and Joy Plunkett.

Fashion Show To Raise Funds For Project

A fashion show to help raise funds for the Kings Beach Recreation Project has been scheduled for Nov. 9 by the Tahoe Sierra Junior Women's Club which resumed meetings this month.

The event will be a "Champagne Fashion Show" at 2 p.m. at Crystal Bay Club and Chairman Mrs. Richard Clarey.

Children's and Women's handmade styles will feature the show. A highlight will be original "designers' creations" made by members from paper.

The Junior Women's Club is a national community service group organized on the North Shore in 1966. Its first president was Mrs. Cliff Frazier.

Club projects during its first two years have included providing clothes, toys, books, Easter baskets and Christmas stockings for patients at the Sparks Mental Hospital.

Members last year raised funds to help send Vicki Jones of Tahoe City to Chile for Olympic training and contributed to "Operation Crusade" which sent bags of personal items to patients in Vietnam hospitals.

A special project was a Bicycle Rodeo to help school children understand the rules of bicycle safety. Club members have circulated petitions urging a dog control law and addressed envelopes for the Cancer Society.

Presiding officers this year are Mrs. William Dowling, president; Mrs. John Johnson, first vice president; Mrs. James Larsen, third vice president; Mrs. Cliff Frazier, recording secretary; Mrs. Ron Nebeker, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Charles Rodrick, treasurer.

ADVANCED TRAINING — Fred Schultz, proprietor of Bonanza Land Co. of Incline Village, has enrolled in a special educational course in real estate exchange techniques sponsored by California Real Estate Association; the five-day course will be held in San Diego December 2 to 6; upon completion of the course, Schultz will be designated a Certified Property Exchangor; he is a member of the Reno Real Estate Board and the education committee of the Nevada Association of Realtors. —Victor Anderson Photo

Free Firewood At Boreal Ridge

Free firewood is available at Boreal Ridge, according to Jay Price, manager of the famous winter sports facility atop Donner Summit.

Price reports a number of trees have been felled and limbed and that they need only to be cut to length and hauled away. Some of the trees were cut three years ago and some of them this year.

The wood is free for the taking. Price asks that automobiles not be driven across the grassy areas.

Today's Chuckle

The pollster must be like a football coach, ready with a lot of explanations if he is right and a lot of jokes if he is wrong.

Tax Fees Apportioned

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy last week announced the semi-annual apportionment of $6,044,001 among counties, cities, and school districts of trailer coach fees for the first six months of 1968.

Nevada County's share was $17,750.57 and Placer County's share was $47,316.22.

The Vehicle License Fee law provides that license fees be paid on all trailer coaches registered in California, and provides for semi-annual apportionment of the revenue therefrom, to the counties on the basis of the registered addresses of the vehicles. Apportionments are made as soon as possible after the registration data is made available to us by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

The County Auditor then distributes the total equally between the county, city, and the school districts in which each trailer is situated.

Nominate Six As Directors Of North Shore Chamber

Six persons have been named by the nominating committee of the Greater North Lake Tahoe Chamber of Commerce as their choices to fill vacancies on the chamber board of directors.

They are Ray Kettenhofen, an incumbent, Tahoe Ski Bowl in Homewood, nominated to fill a vacancy created by the recent resignation of Vern Hafner; Gardner Mein, River Ranch; Herb Kahn, co-owner of Porters in Tahoe City; Don Hawken, manager of the Bank of California in Tahoe City; Col. Arley A. Hayman, Jr., of Incline Village; and Carl Briggs, editor of the Sierra Sun.

Kettenhofen will represent the west shore, Mein the Alpine Meadows area, Kahn and Hawken Tahoe City, Hayman the Incline Village area, and Briggs will represent Truckee.

The election will take place at the general membership meeting to be held October 30 at the Chataux in Incline Village. Other nominations will be accepted from the floor.

A no-host cocktail party beginning at 6:30 p.m. will commence the festivities at the Chataux, followed by dinner at 7:30. The price is $6 including tax and tip. The movie "Lake Tahoe," narrated by Governor Ronald Reagan, will be shown following installation of directors. Call Betty Layton at the chamber office for information, 583,3461.

Law Permits Medication

A new state law permits a school nurse or designated school personnel to administer medication to a student under certain specified conditions, Placer County Superintendent of Schools Kenneth Lonergan revealed.

The law, approved by the Governor last July 18, provides that a pupil who is required to take medication prescribed by a physician during the regular school day, may be assisted by school personnel if two conditions are met.

1. A written statement must be received from the physician, detailing the method, amount, and time schedules by which such medication is to be taken.
2. A written statement is also required from the parents of the pupil, indicating their desire that the school district assist.

School administrators have been notified of the new procedures by Helen Thom, coordinator of school health, and Martin Bauman, assistant superintendent of instructional service.

Unique Placer County School

Placer County has a unique school for the physically handicapped in the Newcastle School for Exceptional Children. Unique because it is unusual to find a school for the physically handicapped located in a relative rural area.

Newcastle School for Exceptional Children has four academic classrooms for handicapped children, providing an educational program from preschool (youngest child 2.9 year) throught the eighth grade.

In addition to the academic program the school has facilities for a physical therapist, occupational therapist and speech therapist. Many of the children enrolled need the services of several specialists to overcome their physical, emotional and academic problems.

Ellsworth Martinelli serves as principal under the direction of the Placer County Director of Special Education, Thomas S. Murdoch.

The school for the physically handicapped is one of two schools operated by the Placer County Superintendent of Schools, Kenneth L. Lonergan. The second facility at Newcastle is for the trainable mentally retarded.

The secondary program or high school program for the physically handicapped is located at Del Oro High School in Loomis. John Hayden, resource teacher for the physically handicapped, has twelve students enrolled in grades 9 through 12.

Pupils attend classes at both Newcastle and Del Oro High School from Placer, Nevada and El Dorado counties through cooperative agreements of assistance. In addition the Newcastle School for Exceptional Children hosts the Crippled Children's Clinic the first Wednesday of each month for physically handicapped children from Placer Nevada, Sierra, Alpine, El Dorado and Amador counties.

Tahoe Planning Agency Assured Financial Aid

Financial assistance in the form of $30,000 shortly will be on its way to the California Tahoe Regional Planning Agency.

J. Allen Bray, chairman of the group, said he has been assured verbally by the state that either all or part of the money appropriated in a bill signed Aug. 2 by Governor Reagan will reach the agency's pocketbook in about a week.

Bray said Thursday in a telephone interview from his office in Berkeley that legislation which originally formed his agency about a year ago did not include funding. The August bill took care of this.

While the group, which supervises orderly development of the Lake Tahoe region, has operated without actual funds in hand up until now, Bray emphasized that the mechanics for securing the appropriation could not be put into motion until last month.

"I was authorized in a special meeting of the agency at that time to get the papers together to seek this fund," he explained. "I met with the state people Tuesday afternoon."

Bray had said Tuesday that his agency "couldn't even buy a postage stamp." Formal mechanics for securing the state appropriation, however, had not been completed at that time.

Ledford Suggests CHP Career

Young men who are searching for a career with purpose, for a job that will contribute something to the good of mankind, would do well to consider applying for appointment to the California Highway Patrol.

Lieut. O.P. Ledford of the Patrol made this comment as he announced that applications may be obtained at his office in Truckee for the statewide examination to be given November 23. Final date for filing the application is November 1.

"Traffic officers with the Patrol know that they are contributing to the community," Lieut. Ledford said. "It might sound overly dramatic to say that they save lives — but it's absolutely true. The stories of Highway Patrolmen who rescue people from burning cars or deliver babies make headlines. But day to day, as they remove drunk drivers from the road, deter reckless drivers, help stranded motorists, keep traffic moving around accidents, and generally oversee the safe and efficient use of the state's highways, they know they're doing an important job.

"Psychologists tell us many people suffer from a lack of purpose or meaning in their day to day lives. Highway Patrolmen never have that trouble."

Men between the ages of 21 and 31, in good physical condition, who have mature judgment and are able to take responsibility in difficult situations are the type the Patrol is seeking, Lieut. Ledford said.

Application forms for the November 23 examination may be obtained at any CHP, California State Employment Service, Department of Motor Vehicles or State Personnel Board office.

Candidates must be five feet nine inches tall, but no taller than six feet six inches and must be high school graduates, or the equivalent, and in good health.

CONCRETE WORK COMPLETED — Hotel Sahara—Tahoe's eight–story, 250–room addition is up, but not quite finished by the Del E. Webb Corporation. Concrete work is completed and workmen are readying the interior for paneling. Roofing material is being installed. The building is on schedule and set for a mid–December opening. It is part of a $4–million investment by the Webb Corp.

Coast Guard Test Dates Set

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Harold T. "Bizz" Johnson of the Second, mountain–valley counties, District today announced that the annual competition for entrance to the U.S. Coast Guard Academy will commence with the Dec. 7 College Entrance Examination Board tests.

These examinations will be given at more than 3,000 test centers throughout the nation and are the same as are given for most college entrance examinations.

"Arrangements to take this prescribed CEEB examinations should be made by applicant through his school guidance counselor prior to Nov. 2," Congressman Johnson said. He must also submit the U.S. Coast Guard Academy application forms prior to Dec. 15."

Representative Johnson emphasized the opportunity offered qualified young men who choose this four–year course which leads to a Bachelor of Science degree and a commission as an officer in America's oldest continuous seagoing Armed Service.

"Appointments are made on a nationwide competitive basis; there are no separate quotas for states or districts and no special categories," Congressman Johnson said.

"All qualified young men who are interested in this worthwhile profession may write for details and application forms as soon as possible to the Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn. 06320."

To be eligible for the next competition for appointment to the Coast Guard Academy, a candidate must be single, a citizen of the United States, in excellent physical condition and must have reached his seventeenth but not his twenty–second birthday by July 1, 1969.

'Seesee Partridge Is New State Game Bird

SACRAMENTO – California soon will be getting 197 seesee partridges, a sporty game bird native to Pakistan, to release in the wild as part of the Department of Fish and Game program to bolster upland game hunting. Another 103 birds will arrive later.

The seesees, now in federal quarantine in New Jersey, were shipped by the government of West Pakistan in exchange for 300 California valley quail. The seesees will be released in eastern Kern and southern Inyo counties when they arrive in California. Other areas of the state will be stocked at a later date.

Benjamin H. Oehlert, Jr., U.S. ambassador to Pakistan, reported this week to Walter T. Shannon, director of the California Department of Fish and Game, that the first shipment of valley quail had arrived in Pakistan in excellent condition.

The Ambassador said the Secretary of Agriculture of West Pakistan has asked that he "convey to you the thanks of the Government of West Pakistan for your excellent gesture of cooperation and also to say that 300 seesee partridges are being dispatched to California within the next few days."

The DFG released seesees reared at the state's game farm in the same area in the summer of 1968 as part of the exotic game bird program which is designed to provide upland game hunting in suitable areas where there is none now and to bolster existing hunting.

The DFG expects the seesee partridge to complement the Indian chukar in semi–arid regions.

The seesee is found in lower, less rugged country than the chukar.

In size and general characteristics, the seesee resembles California's mountain quail, although it is found in sparse brush cover while the mountain quail prefers dense cover.

In addition to the seesee partridge, the DFG is breeding several other exotics and releasing them in an effort to improve hunting.

These include the barbary partridge, French and Spanish red–legged partridges, crested tinamou, grey and black francolins, and white–winged pheasants.

Several exotics, including the chukar and wild turkey, already are established.

Good Dove Hunting In Lahontan Valley Region

FALLON, Nev. – Several areas in Lahontan Valley are providing successful hunting for sportsmen seeking mourning dove.

Most of the limits are being taken in fields near feed lots and in areas with stockpiles of grain stored outdoors.

Such hunting spots are many in the valley which are a direct result of planned multiple useage of water.

The dove season opened Sept. 1 and will continue through Oct. 20. Limits are 10 daily and 20 in possession.

More detailed information on the best spots for finding the birds can be obtained at the Nevada Fish and Game Department office here (at the airport) or at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Hunters are requested to check with ranchers before opening gates or crossing fences.

Camping facilities are located at many sites in the valley.

That 'Fat Cat' Term Is Insulting To The Feline Family

NEW YORK (SED) — No one knows who first used the expression "fat-cat," but the originator of the phrase either had no eye for felines or no feeling for the truth. He might have said, instead, "obese-Maltese" or even "pudgy-budgie," but cats, of all God's creatures, are the last to go to lard.

If left to follow instinct, the feline is usually a model eater, taking in exactly what fills his stomach and seldom a mouthful more, according to Dr. James E. Corbin, who supervises more than 500 cats at the Purina Pet Care Center. With naught but love in heart, however, cat-keepers keep corrupting kittens.

"We feed our pets exactly what we eat ourselves," is what they say — completely unaware that what they've just proclaimed with pride may really be a death decree for both the species. The ulcer, heart-attack and overweight statistics serve to show that so-called Homo Sapiens is less than bright about his own requirements. In any case, a cat's requirements are not at all the same as ours.

Before he ever feeds his kitten, the neophyte should find himself a soupspoon and fix its bowl-size firmly in his mind.

A kitten's stomach has just about the same capacity. Even in adulthood, his stomach won't be bigger than the average orange. Of course, it can be stretched beyond this norm by over or improper feeding. The most outlandish eating habits — if acquired early and reinforced by repetition — can oust and take the place of instinct. In this respect, the kitten and his owner are a lot alike.

Cats at least don't tempt their fellow cats with cocktail parties, coffee-klatches, ten-course feasts and tantalizing color ads for carbohydrates. Therefore, a house-pet's health is solely in his human's hands; his habits, good or bad, will be determined by a single person.

Some facts must be acquired and some fallacies forgotten . . . like the fable that the favorite and most "natural" foods are milk and fish. Past weaning, a cat has no more need of milk than any other mammal, and many will refuse it. Those who largely live on milk — for lack of other food — will show anemia symptoms from an iron insufficiency. And even in a small amount, milk is often diarrhetic.

Feeding uncooked fish is asking for a visit to the vet. Fish too often harbors tapeworm in its larval form. Most fish contain an anti-vitamin enzyme — thiamina[illegible] cause of trichinosis, all raw [illegible] must also be forbidden. Even cooked, pork is an overfatty food for cats.

The only fool-proof use of absolutes in connection with cat feeding is a line like, "No cat will always eat all the right items." And that's assuming that all owners will always have the time and energy and expertize to offer daily balanced diets.

Happily, some fool-proof formulae have been devised for pets. Along with water, a product like Purina Cat Chow will supply a cat's complete requirements. Or, for those cats (or owners) who prefer variety, Purina has a different variety of canned cat food for each day of the week, prominently numbered from 1 to 7.

In addition to mis-feeding and over-feeding, there are those who err by under-feeding. A "working" cat assigned to store or barn or basement is supposed to eke ou[illegible] saucersful of milk with whateve[illegible] he can lay his claws on. The as[illegible]sumption here is that a well-fe[illegible] cat will laze around and los[illegible] incentive.

The fact is that a healthy (i.e. well-fed) cat will hunt with fa[illegible] more vigor. A "mouser" or, fo[illegible] that matter, that "bad" bird-chase[illegible] down the block, hunts in just the spirit in which humans stalk the fearsome rabbit and ferocious quail. The only difference is that when we do it, we call it sport.

Teaching Reform Underway

By Professor Wendell A. Mordy
Desert Research Institute
University of Nevada

Through the dismaying discovery that they can no longer understand their children's homework, most parents are aware of the nationwide movement toward reform of high school science and math courses. This movement has now reached the university campuses.

One incentive for changes in college teaching has been the discovery that the traditional system tends to reward the conformist rather than the innovator.

From a recent issue of Science and Technology I learned about a study at M.I.T. several years ago which showed that the dropouts from that institution, although only a small portion of the student body, contained a high percentage of young people who could be considered creative — students who were likely to take intellectual risks, try new experiences and seek new solutions.

Among the dropouts, the number of "creative" students was three times greater than the number of "non-risk takers."

It was discovered that departments which attached less importance to quizzes and grades and emphasized the social significance of what was taught kept more than its share of the "innovators."

M.I.T.'s chief psychiatrist and his staff subsequently have studied the university as an ecologist might — identifying stresses and studying student reactions to these stresses.

They have found that at M.I.T., as in most schools, success is so greatly measured by exams and grades that the ability to "play the game" is emphasized at the expense of learning to learn.

The researchers found that many students can do both: play the game and still grow intellectually and emotionally. Such students discover an acceptable balance between doing what is required to succeed and staying interested by studying what is exciting and stimulating.

But another large group responds to the system by putting all their energy into the tasks that lead to high grades, but not necessarily to a real grasp of the subject.

The researchers say the danger of the latter style is that students become set in this pattern and lose the ability to adapt to new and different tasks.

They feel that institutions may inadvertently be rewarding infantile aspirations and ways of adapting — such as relying solely on grades as a reward for mastering a subject.

Such adapations are not consistent with the university's aim to produce graduates who can function in rapidly changing porfessions, not for just a few years after graduation, but for a lifetime — people who can identify and solve problems that we don't yet even realize exist.

The techniques that help a student survive in the university may have little to do with what is required to survive in a profession.

Possibly in recognition of this probelm, many schools are trying to become more flexible.

Grades are not necessarily eliminated, but some effort is made to provide a variety of paths toward a particular career.

Dog Owners Get 'Break'

SACRAMENTO – For the second straight year, dog owners will be allowed to keep their pets overnight in state park campgrounds. But they are warned that the regulations governing the behavior of pets will be strictly enforced.

In making the announcement, State Parks and Recreation Director William Penn Mott Jr. Said that during the first one-year trial period, more than 110,000 dogs were registered overnight in campgrounds, but that better than one out of every eight was involved in a rule infraction that resulted in either a warning to the owner or a formal complaint by a fellow camper.

"Very few citations were issued last year," Mott added. "We were hoping that verbal warnings would be enough.

This year it will be different.

Pet owners who allow their animals to violate park rules can expect to be cited and fined. And, unless there is a decided improvement, the policy of allowing dogs overnight in state campgrounds will be discontinued."

Vicious or unusually noisy dogs will not be allowed to enter or to remain in a park unit.

New Game, Fish Officer

SACRAMENTO – Malcolm E. "Mac" Foster, a veteran of 20 years service with the Department of Fish and Game, has been appointed license officer for the department.

Foster comes to the new position from the post of business service officer with the DFG's Region I in Northern California, which he had held since 1959.

Ford Grants To Universities

NEW YORK – The Ford Foundation today announced grants totaling $1.5 million to two major West Coast universities for educational reforms.

The University of California at Berkeley was granted $500,000 in partial support of a new university office to carry out experimental educational activities ranging from new interdisciplinary courses to a new system of residential colleges.

Stanford University received $1 million to underwrite a group of younger faculty members who will spend half their time developing new educational programs and studying university-wide educational problems. Funds were also provided as venture capital for new educational programs.

Marshall Robinson, the Foundation's officer in charge of Higher Education, said the Berkeley and Stanford programs are designed to foster academic reforms and sustain the spirit of change that is currently sweeping American higher education.

They are also intended, he added, to help universities find new ways to respond to a host of new stresses.

"The causes of university tension are many but some stand out. First, universities have experienced extraordinary growth in size and complexity, while expansion of qualified faculty and administrative personnel has lagged, and many existing teaching and administrative arrangements have become obsolete.

Second, faculty members have become increasingly involved in matters that pull them away from teaching and student affairs.

Third, the young people in today's colleges and universities are bright, concerned, articulate, and strong enough to demand better performance from these institutions.

These forms of institutional pressure call for new ideas, new approaches, and a redefinition of roles of the various participants in the university community.

"In recent grants, including support of studies at Columbia University and a major new effort by the National Student Association, the Foundation has assisted student and faculty efforts to break new ground in the structure and concepts of higher education."

With these grants to Berkeley and Stanford we are seeking to support similar promising attempts by university administrations themselves."

At Berkeley, the grant will support an Office of Educational Development, recently established by Chancellor Roger Heyns and operating under his direct supervision.

Operating as a university research and development center and staffed by a director, several faculty members on part-time appointment, and several students, the office will search out and screen new educational programs, prepare background papers, and conduct negotiations to establish the programs.

The office is an explicit effort to provide new initiatives for change and to enable students to participate in the process.

Funds will also be used to plan and carry out a wide range of experimental activities.

These might include new interdisciplinary courses that reflect contemporary social, political, and economic issues such as race relations, urban problems, the social and economic impact of national defense, and the meaning and conduct of the modern university. Graduate students would be provided an opportunity to experiment with various types of training programs, teaching methods, and class sizes.

The university will also explore new residential-college concepts that might be linked to specific interests of students — for example, urban problems, education for the difficult-to-educate, or conflict resolution — instead of the usual residential college focus on traditional academic fields.

The university plans to undertake an additional $2 million fund-raising campaign among California businesses to provide further support for these activities.

The Stanford program will seek to remedy a serious shortage on most university campuses — faculty members of high professional standing who are willing and able to identify and work on university-wide problems.

Over the five-year term of the grant, a total of thirteen Fellows of the universtiy will be selected at an early stage of their careers for special university service.

Relieved of all departmental assignments, including teaching, they will devote half their time to the development and evaluation of educational programs.

The other half of their time will be spent on their own professional development.

Hunters Note: Late Openings

SACRAMENTO – California waterfowl hunters were reminded by the Department of Fish and Game today that six of the state and federal waterfowl areas on which the DFG operates public shooting will have deferred openings this year.

The DFG pointed out that there is no point in hunters submitting reservation applications for those areas for the opening weekend, October 19-20, because the areas will be closed.

The six with deferred openings are the Gray Lodge State Wildlife Area, Sacramento, Delevan, Colusa and Sutter National Wildlife Refuges, which open Oct. 26; and the Merced National Wildlife Refuge, which opens Nov. 2.

The balance of the areas — Honey Lake, Grizzly Island, San Luis Wasteway, Los Banos, Mendota and Imperial Wildlife Areas; and San Luis and Salton Sea National Wildlife Refuges — will open on the opening day of the season, Oct. 19.

The Most Taxes Ever Collected

SACRAMENTO – Individual and corporate taxes collected by the Franchise Tax Board in calendar 1967 broke through the billion dollar level for the first time in the State's history.

Total collections rose to $1.208 billion, compared with $890 million collected during 1966, according to the department's annual report released today.

The $318 million gain is attributable largely to 1967 legislative changes. Approximately $241 million stems from acceleration of individual and corporate tax payments while the remaining $77 million reflects the growth in the State's economy, according to Executive Officer Martin Huff.

On a fiscal year basis, 1966–67 taxes totaled $953 million compared with $890 million in the prior fiscal year, a gain of $63 million or seven percent.

Huff pointed out that the 1967 calendar year increase in collections only partially reflects the changes in the State's income tax structure enacted by the 1967 Legislature. The full impact will not be reportable until the end of calendar 1968.

Five and a half million taxpayers filed California personal income tax returns during 1967. Collections in 1966–67 totaled $500 million, up $45 million or ten percent from the previous year. Funds from this source made up 21 percent of the State General Fund revenue, Huff said.

Of the 5.5 million returns filed, 4.3 million reported a tax liability. Salaries and wages accounted for 79.2 percent of the almost $49 billion in adjusted gross income reported. Other principal sources reported were dividends, 3.6 per cent; interest, 3.5 per cent; capital gains, 2.6 per cent; annuities and pensions, 1.1 per cent.

Corporate taxes in 1966–67 totaled $453 million, a gain of $17 million over the previous year. These taxes accounted for 18.7 percent of the State General Fund revenue.

As a result of 1967 legislation, corporation taxes are a significantly larger factor in the State tax structure, Huff said. Revenue during calendar 1967 rose to $573 million, compared with $439 million during calendar 1966.

Watch How You Eat At The Olympics

Eat regularly and well, but do not over–indulge.

Just what the doctor ordered, you say? Could be, but it's also a good tip when driving through high altitudes on your way to the Mexico Summer Olympics.

The reason is simple: in higher altitudes digestion is slower.

Bank of America Travelers Cheques which puts its resident representatives in Mexico through their paces to get this kind of feedback, adds that what goes for the digestive track also goes for the car radiator if you plan to drive.

In the higher altitudes water boils at lower temperatures so that if you plan to do some mountain driving on your way to Mexico City you should carry some extra water for your radiator.

But getting back to food, don't make any assumptions about Mexican food until you've seen what is actually offered in Mexican restaurants.

The range and variety will probably surprise you.

As befits a world capital, Mexico City has a great number of excellent restaurants in addition to eateries that offer American, French, Swiss, German and Chinese cuisine, to suit all travel budgets.

In Mexico City and in other places located at high altitudes, it is customary to have the main meal in the early afternoon and to dine lightly in the evening. Restaurants serve breakfast starting at 7:30 a.m., dinner at 1 p.m., and supper at 7:30 p.m.

These habits change when one eats out and then it's good to remember that dining out in Mexico is a social event and that, unlike California, dining habits are leisurely. Mexicans eat dinner later than we do, and restaurants that are empty at 8 p.m. may be packed at 10 p.m. and later.

If you're stuck for a good restaurant, consult the Mexico City telephone book which carries a special tourist section (green pages) included as a service to English–speaking travelers.

Nation Observes Bible Week October 20-27

NEW YORK, — National Bible Week will be launched Oct. 18 at a luncheon at New York's Hotel Pierre honoring Wallace E. Johnson, national chairman of the observance and president of Holiday Inns of America, Inc.

Bible Week, sponsored jointly by the American Bible Society and the Laymen's National Committee, will be held the week of Oct. 20.

The observance also officially opens the Bible Society's 40-day annual Worldwide Bible Reading program, which extends through Thanksgiving Day.

Both Bible Week and Worldwide Bible Reading are held each year to encourage daily Bible reading and emphasize the positive impact of the Scriptures on daily life.

Johnson, of Memphis, Tenn. is one of the nation's leading laymen. He is chairman of the executive committee of Religious Heritage of America and with his wife, Alma, has sponsored the construction of several Baptist churches, at home and abroad.

Reared in a modest home in Edinburg, Miss., Johnson is a self-made multimillionaire. In leading the national Bible Week observance, he said:

"Our founding and our success as a nation and a people go back to the greatest book in the world — the Bible. Our goal in 1968 is to persuade as many Americans as possible to become daily readers of the Bible.

"We need to keep this nation under God. We need to seek constantly the will and guidance of God. We Americans can solve the many complex problems which confront us if we will read the Bible daily and pray for spiritual guidance."

Johnson keeps a Bible on his desk and uses prayer in his business. He believes God should be a daily partner and prays for everything from God's help in changing a building foreman's attitude toward his men to a $5 million construction loan.

"I firmly believe if I left God out of my business it would begin to fall apart in a matter of months," Johnson said.

National Bible Week was conceived by a group of prominent New York laymen in 1940 when Europe was plunged into war. The Laymen's National Committee's radio program inaugurating the first National Bible Week was interrupted on Dec. 7, 1941 with the news that Pearl Harbor had been bombed.

The Worldwide Bible Reading program also began during World War II. A lonely marine on Guadalcanal asked his family to read daily pre-selected Scripture lessons with him. His parents shared the idea with the American Bible Society and stimulated what has become the world's largest Bible reading fellowship. It is expected to attract more than 40 million participants this year.

Heart Film Is Available

RENO – "Eat to Your Heart's Content," is the title of a new 16mm, 12 1/2 minute, color film available for clubs, education groups, and employe health programs.

Narrated by Tony Randall, this film notes the importance of a proper diet in reducing the risk of a heart attack.

In introducing the film Randall says, "The American male comes in various sizes, shapes, and conditions. But statistics show that a great many of these lovable, unsuspecting Americans have one thing in common —they're headed for the kind of trouble that can spell heart attack. Fortunately, there are steps they can take to reduce the risk. And one of these steps, as underscored in this film is proper diet."

To reserve the film for group showings, call or write: Nevada Heart Association, 1465 S. Wells Ave., Rrno.

KOKANEE IN SEASON – Kokanee salmon are making their annual trek from Lake Tahoe. The salmon run once each year at this time. The U.S. Forest Service Stream Profile Chamber at Taylor Creek affords visitors with a one of its kind side view of fish in a natural habitat. The Kokanee can be seen in their mating ritual at the chamber from 1 to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekends. — Photo courtesy Forest Service

Hotel Readies Plans For Snow Ball

Hotel Sahara-Tahoe has completed plans for its third annual Interline Party and Snow Ball, Jan. 12-18.

Seven Snow Ball parties, free to attending airline employes, have been scheduled for the week-long event at the local resort hotel-casino.

Lineup for the 1969 sponsored cocktail parties include: Skymark Airlines, Jan. 12; Avis Rent - A - Car, Jan. 13; United Airlines, Jan. 14; Holiday Airlines, Jan. 15; Air West Airlines, Jan. 16; Western Airlines, Jan. 17; and Sahara-Tahoe, Jan. 18.

Airline employes from across the globe, ranging from vice presidents, to stewardesses, to clerks, will receive a gift from Sahara-Tahoe upon registering.

Interliners will also be treated to nightly fondue parties, a gourmet dinner in the Aspen Grove, and three cocktails in the Aspen Grove or Juniper Lounge, where entertainment abounds from dusk-til-dawn.

Heavenly Valley, the largest single ski area in the world, is offering a free sight-seeing tour, an Interline Ski School,

Kokanee Salmon Begin Run Up Taylor Creek

The invasion of big red fish at Taylor Creek has begun, according to Nord Whited, forest naturalist, Lake Tahoe Visitors Center.

Thousands of Kokanee salmon, driven by the mysterious forces of instinct, are beginning their spectacular runs up the stream to lay their eggs, and then die.

Judging from the Kokanee catch on Lake Tahoe during the summer, this fall's spawning run should be the largest yet, Whited said.

The Kokanee, who live out their 4-year life spans in Lake Tahoe, turn a brilliant red and undergo other changes as the time for the ritual known as spawning approaches. The hooked jaws and humped backs of the males are an especially startling sight.

This year, visitors to Taylor Creek will be able to watch these fish and their activities in a very special way. The U. S. Forest Service Stream Profile Chamber, a building sunk into the ground at Taylor Creek meadow, gives observers an opportunity to look into the stream through windows below the surface of the water, literally getting a fish's eye-view, the ranger noted.

The chamber will be open Tuesdays through Fridays from 1 to 4 p.m., and weekends from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. There is no charge. The building will be closed on Mondays for maintenance and improvements.

Taylor Creek is located on Highway 89, one-half mile beyond Camp Richardson. Parking is available at the Visitor Center with a pleasant walk down through the meadow on an easy trail to the Stream Profile Chamber, Whited reports.

As the spawning run approches its climax, special talks will be given by forest naturalists, Saturdays at 10 o'clock on the following dates: Oct. 19 and 26, and Nov. 2. The talks will cover details of the spawning run and will include information on the chamber, egg-taking operations and the stream during other seasons, rangers say.

Tree Laws Proposed

CARSON CITY – New ordinances for Ormsby County to regulate tree cutting, grading and subdividing may soon be in the making.

Planner Raymond M. Smith, Reno, told the Ormsby County-Carson City Planning Commission he understands that George Whittell, Woodside, Calif., may be ready to sell 4,500 acres of Lake Tahoe basin land in the county.

The ordinances are needed to keep up with future development, Smith said. A tree-cutting ordinance would "prevent some developer from going in and wiping out half of Ormsby County's trees," according to John Meder, county commissioner.

Waterfowl Season Opens On Saturday

California's general waterfowl hunting season begins one-half hour before sunrise on Saturday, Oct. 19, and unless there is a major deterioration in the weather, the early duck harvest may be a bit scanty.

With clear skies and warm temperatures prevailing, the latest Tule Lake-Lower Klamath feather count showed only about 315,000 ducks and about 35,000 geese loafing around, even though new flocks were arriving daily.

As for the lush Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, the most recent tally showed about 780,000 fowl in residence.

Both the Klamath Basin and Central Valley bird counts were about on a par with a year ago, which wasn't a banner season in the early weeks.

In fact, Mallard are reckoned in such short supply that the daily take has been restricted to three birds, and the daily allowance on the canvasbacks has been limited to a pair.

The duck season runs 86 days through and including Sunday, Jan. 12. The daily bag and possession limit for most of the state is six ducks. However, in northeastern California, which traditionally ties in with the Oregon rules, the limit is five birds daily with 10 in possession.

The goose limit is the usual six daily, six in possession, not more than three of which can be of the dark species. Only one Ross' goose is allowed in any limit.

For the unattached shooter, there are 14 state and federal areas on which the public can shoot on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays throughout the season. Because of limited facilities and a great demand, reservations must be made in advance. Application forms are available at all licensing agencies.

Voter Data Is Available

Information regarding Douglas County absentee ballots and the Nov. 5 general election is available at the Douglas County Republican Headquarters, according to Jerry Snyder, campaign chairman, Lake Tahoe-Nevada Republican Women's Club.

The headquarters, located in the mall at Round Hill Village, is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily, phone 588-3988.

Deadline to request absentee ballots in Nevada, is Oct. 29. The returned ballot must reach the Douglas County clerk's office on or before Nov. 5 in order to be valid.

Real Estate Exam Passed

CARSON CITY — Three Incline Village residents and one from Stateline were among 129 of 202 applicants who received passing grades for a Nevada real estate license last month, according to Don McNelley, administrator, Department of Commerce, Real Estate Division.

From Incline Village are James King; James Ebert and Charles Martinson. Larry Hatcher is from Stateline.

What's Happened to the Textured Leg?

"PATTERNS LOOK WRONG WITH THE CLOTHES I'M WEARING NOW' SUDDENLY EVEN POINT D'ESPRIT LOOKS PASSE'"

"My husband doesn't like textured stockings. He thinks they make my legs look too heavy."

"I'm wearing pants practically every day, and I wear sheer pantyhose under them to give me a clean straight line"

These are the girls on the street talking about fall hosiery. All of them were wearing either sheer or lightweight opaque pantyhose. Some say they would wear textured hose this fall but stress it would be only with sportswear.

MOST SAY THE LIGHTWEIGHT OPAQUE AND SHEERS IN THE SOMBRE SHADES OF BROWN' GRAY' GREEN AND BLACK TOP THEIR HOSIERY SHOPPING LISTS FOR FALL.

Mrs. Dede Bagar of Riverdale said, "I like the look of textured hose with

Boots Are In! For Fall

Boots attached to garters like stockings; boots over-the-knee; boots knee-high. Whatever length a woman chooses, boots are definitely important accessories with this season's exciting fashions. The maxi and midi coats demand boots to be fashion right. The still-popular short lengths need the leg interest which boots provide. In the new fashion mix fur, leather, tweed may be tossed together successfully; leather represented by smart boots. The wide-legged pants, reminiscent of the 30's and worn with capes, jackets and coats, take snug-fitting knee-high boots. Sears, Roebuck and Co. fashion authorities spotted the trends and working in conjunction with shoe authorities such as I. Miller have introduced star-studded collection of leather boots.

Glamorous over-the-knee boots will be seen in the chic night places with furs and glitter. Furs from the traditional to the off-beat take leather boots as partners. For the country life, leather is the thing from sporting gauntlet to boots with hardware touches, buckles, and cuffed effects. Colors to augment browns and black are cognac, antiqued, and hand-stained finishes in tan, burgundy, brown, as well as neutral white and bone. Sears has a wide selection of quality boots to meet the needs of day and evening, city, and country.

said there is a definite need for it in hosiery departments; women want to wear it with CityPants and with see-through fashions."

However, she added that the company would not begin deliveries until late October.

Miss Bier said she is considering adding a "haberdashery knee-high with clocks f for wear with CityPants to our spring line."

Kathleen Bremond, fashion director for Hanes, said the company is bringing out "a special type of pantyhose" in its spring line for wear with CityPants.

"Pants will be much more important than the Midi was last spring," she said. "But I don't think they mean a revolution in women's fashion."

thick tweeds and heavy wools, but although I've searched the department stores I can't find exactly the look I want. When I find them I'll only be wearing them for sports."

Vilma Bufman of Manhattan, whose wardrobe already boasts six pairs of CityPants is stocking up on brown, navy, blue and black lightweight opaques.

"TEXTURED STOCKINGS?" SHE SAYS' "ONLY WITH VERY SPORTY THINGS' THEY LOOK WRONG WITH ANYTHING MORE DRESSY' HOWEVER' I DO HAVE ONE PAIR OF SHEERS WITH A SHADOWY PATTERN I MAY WEAR DURING THE DAY."

"I wear no hosiery with CityPants in the evening and opaques with those for daywear."

Joan Warfield of Tucson, Arizona., said, "Textures are all right for sports...but I don't like them with patterns. What I'm looking for is a heavy wool plain knit stocking to wear with tweeds."

Joanne French of Manhattan notes, "I wore textured hose last year with sports clothes and I loved the look, but this year I'm wearing pants.

"Under them I wear regular pantyhose which look great. I'm not planning to buy any textured hosiery, all I need are some new opaques."

Teresa Calagna of Brooklyn, a school teacher, has a husband who likes plain sheer stockings. She's wearing the textured hose she has to school, and won't be buying any more.

Salesgirl, Sandra Fighlin wore textured hose last year but won't buy any this fall.

"Textured hose just doesn't look good on short girls," she adds. "I never wore very big patterns but this year even the small pretty ones don't look right."

Hosiery Men See No Sales Steps Missed With CityPants

CityPants will put body-stockings--with-legs into women's hosiery wardrobes, according to leading manufacturers here.

Despite the fact that pants take the focus off the leg, makers expressed no concern about the effect of soaring pants sales on hosiery volume.

'Women will want to wear something under their pants and if it's not a body stocking it will be panty-hose,'' said one maker.

Another added, "A body stocking or pantyhose with some control is the obvious thing to wear under pants or a jump suit."

While only three or four major manufacturers have body stockings with-legs now, most have them on the drawing boards and will offer them for Spring selling.

Ariadne was the first major manufacturer to introduce the stocking to buyers in May, for August delivery.

Marlene Koval, fashion designer for the company said, "It's the hottest thing we have ever brought out. We thought it would be a novelty item, but discovered it was a garment women have been waiting for.

"We have sold three times as many as we planned for, and can't keep up with the demand."

She added the company is experiementing with various types of yarns and will introduce at least one other stocking for spring

Vera Scott, vice-president of Hudson Hosiery, said, "I believe the body stocking is a natural to wear under pants and we will have one in our Spring line.

"Pants have come in far quicker than most people thought they would, and they will be worn by a tremendous number of women with young figures.

"But the hosiery industry has little to fear. It will add a new dimension with the body stocking. Pants will also boost sales of pantyhose with some control in the panty.

Miss Scott added that pants would not threaten the eye appeal of surface interest of the stocking."

"Not all women will wear pants," she said. "And many who do will want to have some accent on the ankle."

Bernard Imber, president of Bewitching Glitter Knits, who introduced a body stocking for delivery in October, said, "all buyers had expressed interest in it, and about 40 per cent placed orders."

"The stocking has a great future and is the natural for jump suits and pants, especially when worn with see-through shirts," he said.

Rose Gerace, director of advertising, sales promotion and publicity at Indian Head Hosiery Co., said, its Spring line would include a body stocking designed by Emilio Pucci.

"Pants will boost sales of both pantyhose and body stockings because what women want is one clean line under them," she said.

"The body stocking also looks good with both short skirts or culottes.

Leone Bier, fashion director of Belle-Sharmeer, said interest in the company's body stocking, which it introduced last month has been "tremendous."

"Buyers, models and Seventh Avenue designers have all inquired about the stocking," she said. "Buyers

The next three units will serve to officially open our International Pavilion. House of Nine, a women's fashion store specializing in small women's sizes, will open in the first shop oin the right when entering off the mall. Next will be Nutville, U.S.A., naturally specializing in 100 different varieties of nuts. Opposite House of Nine and occupying the first shop on the left, will be Xanadu Gifts (pronounced Zan-a-do). For the unique and mysterious in imported and domestic gifts, try this interesting new shop.

For shoppers' convenience, the International Pavilion was recently remodeled by adding a parking lot entrance on the east side of the center. Shoppers in the Pavilion will especially enjoy the wide-open fronts of the stores and, of course, the weather protection of the heated and air conditioned mall.

The fifth new store will be Weisfield's Jewelry, located between World of Toys and Mount Rose Sporting Goods, at the north end of the main mall. The well-known West Coast jewelry chain s new unit is expected to be open on or about November 15th.

Action Along the Mall!

The pleasant mall sounds of shopping carts, background music, people visiting or rushing to their next destination, have been broken, during the last few weeks, by the drilling, sawing and nailing sounds of construction. Thanks to those construction noises, what has been referred to as "37 Fine Stores" will soon be "42 Fine Stores."

Five new and exciting stores are in the process of opening within the next few days. The first of these will be "Walden Book Store" on the mall between Huston's Shoes and the International Pavilion. The national book store chain will offer readers in the Reno area the most complete selection of reference and relaxational reading material ever offered.

Xanadu Features "COPCO"

For countless centuries beautiful heavy cast-iron has been used by gourmet cooks for its superior cooking qualities. This COPCO group has been assembled to recreat these traditional cooking qualities and the hand-crafted appearance of the gourmet kitchen.

COPCO designers, Michael Lax and Count Sigvard Bernadotte, have combined richly grained woods and brilliant colors with fresh contemporary forms to achieve the most extensive coordinated cookware group available.

COPCO Danish porcelainized cast-iron spreads heat evenly and holds heat longer than other cookware materials. It will make gourmet triumphs of your everyday meals. Only COPCO creates unusual and exciting shapes such as its famous Paella, Lasagne and Scampi Dishes for cooking internationally acclaimed recipes.

Handsome and practical in your kitchen, magnificent on your table, COPCO travels from freezer to oven to table with ease. COPCO is easy to clean. No abrasives or scourers are necessary — just soak in warm suds and wipe with a sponge or cloth. The COPCON non-stick finish needs no special spatula.

COPCO pantryware and accessories were designed by Kenneth Brozen and Sam Mann. These colorful and practical pieces complement the cookware group and create the complete kitchen...THE COPCO KITCHEN.
